BOOKS ON GREENLAND GIVEN TO LIBRARY

In early July, the Boreal Institute for Northern Studies Library was presented with a gift of a set of facsimile reproductions of a number of old and interesting books on Greenland.

The gift originated with the owner of a Danish publishing house, Anders Nyborg. Mr. Nyborg presented a number of copies of the books to the Danish Ministry of Cultural Affairs and asked that they be distributed to relevant libraries inside and outside Scandinavia. The Royal Library of Denmark was given the responsibility of distributing the books. Ten books and two art reproductions were given to the Boreal Library.

Four of the books were originally published in 1858, two of them in 1860, one in 1855, one in 1856, one in 1857, and one in 1874. The two art reproductions were originally produced in 1858. This rare set of Groenlandica will prove to be a valuable addition to the holdings of the Boreal Institute's Library.

CENTREX CONVERSION COMPLETED

Centrex service is now fully operational for the University of Alberta. The conversion took place on the weekend of 17 July; the system went into service on schedule at 7:30 a.m., 19 July. The Clinical Sciences Building changed to Centrex at that time.

Physical Plant staff, consultants, and "edmonton telephones" installation teams composed the group of 120 people involved in the conversion.

The successful conversion culminated two and one-half years of joint planning by the University and "edmonton telephones." The definition of a successful conversion of this size and scale is that there is little noticeable change to the average telephone user. The actual number of line troubles reported on the first few days of service was less than one percent. A few problems were attributed to lack of attention to the Centrex User's Guide before telephones were used.

On 8 August 1976, the University of Alberta Hospital will enter into the Centrex system, thereby completing the entire conversion.

Richard Kerr

The Carol Lee Dancers from Spokane, Washington, provided some of the entertainment at the NASA Klondike Breakfast held last Friday. An estimated twelve hundred people attended the breakfast.
